

The Paris Chamber of Commerce and Industry (CCIP)

Established in 1803, the CCIP is the leading Chamber of Commerce and Industry in France and in Europe. It is a public organization representing the 300,000 companies in the greater Paris region and is responsible for 18% of the country's GDP. It serves companies with its expertise and supports them through every phase of their development. By addressing legislative issues and helping companies forecast and prepare for the future, the CCIP works daily to extend the national and international scope of business in and around the French capital.

Educational role

Every year, more than 13,000 students and 40,000 continuing education trainees study in the 12 CCIP educational institutions, every institution being specialized in a particular field.
